2. APS Major Description

APS: Human Resource Development Goals

The college of Asia Pacific Studies aims to cultivate human resources that, upon comprehensive understanding of the diverse political conditions, economies, societies, and cultures of the Asia Pacific region, will;

1. achieve basic and advanced knowledge in such areas as global society, environment and development, and tourism;
2. develop language, communication and problem-solving abilities; and
3. through understanding of the diverse problems facing the Asia Pacific, will be able to contribute to sustainable development and coexistence in the region.

APS: Degree

Degree

Bachelor of Social Science

APS: Areas of Study

The College of Asia Pacific Studies has established four Areas of Study in order to conduct education and research for the development of wide-ranging problem solving ability and specialized know-how of the issues facing the Asia Pacific region. Studies are centered on solid language proficiency and a basic understanding of the diverse cultures, histories, societies, natural environments, and historical conditions of the Asia Pacific region. As a part of graduation requirements, students must choose and register one Area of Study from the following and then complete at least 2 credits from the required subjects (Common Liberal Arts Subjects) for the Area of Study of your choice and 28 credits from the Major Education Subjects for the Area of Study.

APS: Required Subjects for Area of Study

(Common Liberal Arts Subjects)

At APS, subjects required for each Area of Study are stipulated. Students will tackle questions such as what a designated academic field is and become acquainted with a wide-angle view of the problems and the objectives of these fields. These subjects serve as the first step to a broader and a deeper learning in the academic fields by providing students with the basic knowledge and theories they need to understand the field.

Area of Study	Subject	Registration
Environment and Development	Introduction to Environmental Studies	Registered by Student
	Introduction to Development Studies
Hospitality and Tourism	Introduction to Tourism and Hospitality
International Relations and Peace Studies	Introduction to International Relations
Culture, Society and Media	Introduction to Culture and Society

HOW TO REACH THE SYLLABUS WEBPAGE

The image shows a screenshot of the Asia Pacific University (APU) website. The main navigation bar at the top includes links for Alumni, Parents & Guardians, Business, Industry & Media, Visitors, and Campus Terminal. The 'Campus Terminal' link is highlighted with a blue box and a blue arrow pointing to it. Below the navigation bar, there is a search bar and language selection options for Japanese (日本語) and English (ENG). The main content area features a large image of students in a classroom setting. On the right side, there is a vertical menu with various navigation options, each with a right-pointing arrow. At the bottom right, there are social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn, YouTube, and a 'U' icon.

Teaching Methods	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> *All classes are composed of lecture and workshop. Lectures are given in the first 30 minutes of the class, followed by workshops. *Specific study skills are taught in the lecture. In the workshop, the students, divided into several small groups, apply and practice the skills they learned in the lecture. *A small group is comprised of about 10 students, and assisted by one teaching assistant (TA). Workshops are conducted by the TAs. The instructor visits the groups and provides support to the TA and students when necessary. *Small groups are divided into two sub-groups. Students work on topics assigned to the group.

Requirements for Students	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> * This class is designed in such a way that students proceed step-by-step to acquire study skills. To master these skills, the students work in groups on given assignments throughout the semester. * Tardiness, absence, or neglecting tasks may disrupt the course of study. This kind of behavior not only hampers your own study but also upsets the progress of other classmates. * Remember to attend all lessons throughout the semester and submit essays before the due date. * Buy a file or binder exclusively for this class (it does not have to be an expensive one). Keep handouts, data and printed materials for group work and for reference to write the final essay. You will find them useful in keeping track your study records.
