

INCREASE YOUR EMPLOYABILITY

Are you interested in discovering which roles within Finance you might be better suited for? Would you like know which business areas you have a higher aptitude in? Bloomberg will now be hosting Bloomberg Aptitude Test (BAT) sessions to screen students interested in careers in finance, business and consulting. The screening process involves a 100 question assessment (multiple choice) used by Bloomberg and 100's of global financial employers to fill internships and full time positions.

The BAT is a free assessment comprised of 8 different subject areas measuring your aptitude in various aspects of finance and business as well as career skills relevant to any industry. Students who take the BAT uncover their strengths on various subjects and gain insight into which areas of business may suit them best. It also helps you define yourself as valued candidate to potential employers. Over 180,000 students worldwide have already taken the BAT, so don't miss this amazing opportunity to jump start your career and register online today!
