

RCAPS Onigiri Seminar

Prof. Quansheng Zhao

International Relations, School of International Service, American University

America's new foreign policy and developments in East Asian Affairs

The new American administration is about to undertake unprecedented foreign policy. Simultaneously, East Asian affairs are undergoing unprecedented changes. China, Japan, and South Korea are all experiencing changes in domestic politics, and these changes are affecting international politics. The changes in domestic politics and international affairs must be accounted for in order to consider Japanese economic and industry/corporate trends. This talk will offer a bird's eye view of East Asian affairs, in order to understand and analyze the new U.S. administration's foreign policy.

Prof. Quansheng Zhao

Date: Thu, 21 Dec, 2017
Time: 5th Period (16:05-17:40)
Venue: RCAPS Room A
(2nd Floor, Bldg B)

Please register from RCAPS website to attend the seminar.
<http://www.apu.ac.jp/rcaps/>