

6. Off-campus Study Programs

(Overseas and Domestic Student Exchange and Study Abroad Programs)

6.1 Overview of Off-campus Study Programs

APU education stresses the elements of knowledge, experience, and exchange. Classroom lectures are useful for acquiring knowledge; however, it is also necessary to provide students with off-campus opportunities to gain experience and participate in exchange activities.

Moving away from the standard system of teaching and learning based solely on classroom lectures, APU designs programs to focus on experience and practical learning. These are called Off-campus Study Programs. There are a wide range of Off-campus Study Programs to meet the needs of students at various stages during their four years of study. Off-campus Study Programs do not simply provide an opportunity for you to apply the knowledge you learn in the classroom. They provide an opportunity for you to go beyond the learning experience as you reflect on your academic plans and career development. APU offers a range of programs from domestic and international fieldwork to internships. The University also makes use of its vast global networks to provide a wide variety of regional and international cooperative programs. We strongly urge all students to take advantage of at least one Off-campus Study Programs as part of their four-year course of study.

*For program details and program periods, please refer to the List of Off-campus Study Programs on the following page.

*Please check the Academic Office website for the latest information.

6.2 Overseas Student Exchange Programs

The following guidelines apply to programs based on Student Exchange Agreements signed with partner universities. The primary aim of these programs is to enable participants to take courses in their area of specialization at a different university, giving them the maximum opportunity to broaden their knowledge. These programs should be seen as an opportunity to further develop study skills and research abilities acquired to date, not merely to improve language ability.

This section provides a general explanation of the systems and procedures for Overseas Student exchange programs. For more information, please refer to the Overseas Student Exchange Programs page located under the Student Exchange tab on the Academic Office website.

Credit Transfer after Student Exchange

All students

- Students can transfer a maximum of 60 credits to APU, including credits earned at their host university through student exchange.
- It is not possible to transfer credits for subjects with no relation to the APU curriculum (e.g. sports / art courses).
- Students wishing to transfer credits for subjects offered as part of the regular curriculum at their host university must apply to have these subjects screened.
- If a host university subject is transferred under the name of a specific APU subject, it is no longer possible to register for that subject at APU.
- "T" (transfer) will be shown for all transferred subjects in the evaluation section of students' grade report.

AY 2017 Curriculum students

- We highly recommend that APM students choose a university accredited by AACSB, EQUIS, or EPAS. APM students studying at partner universities with one or more of these accreditations may be able to transfer some subjects as APM major education subjects. Subjects taken at non-accredited universities may not be eligible for transfer as APM major education subjects.

Independently Arranged Study Abroad

"Independently Arranged Study Abroad" does not refer to a Student Exchange Program with a university with which APU has signed a "Student Exchange Agreement," but instead refers to a system where the student applies independently and is accepted to a study abroad program at a university of the student's choice after evaluation by APU. The student's status will be set to "exchange" while they are overseas. In order to obtain this "exchange" status at APU for this type of program, students must fulfill the following requirements:

- The classes that the student will be attending overseas must be accredited classes (the duration must be six months or more).
- The course of study at the host university must be deemed academically beneficial to the student.
- APU and the host university must agree on the student's study abroad program.
- The student must not possess a passport for the country or region of the host university. If the student possesses a passport for the country or region of the host university the student must have received less than four years of education in that country or region after Junior High School (beyond G7).

* For more details please contact the Academic Office.

6.3 Domestic Exchange Programs

Ritsumeikan University - Akita International University Exchange Program (1 semester or 1 year program)

Through domestic exchange programs it is possible to study at two universities: Ritsumeikan University (RU) and Akita International University (AIU). Unlike APU, Ritsumeikan University (RU) has nine colleges, so it is possible to deepen your knowledge in areas that are not available at APU. (There are actually 16 colleges; however, program participants are able to apply to nine of them.) Additionally, RU has a high percentage of students who are Japanese. On the other hand, Akita International University (AIU) offers many small classes, and classes are all held in English. In contrast to major education where you master knowledge deeply in a specific field of expertise, their programs offer a liberal arts education where you master diverse perspectives that can help you make the right decisions based on the circumstances. Please choose and participate in the program that best matches your interests and where you can enrich your experiences and deepen your studies.
