

Faculty Information

YOSHIMATSU Hidetaka

■ Division:

International Relations (IR)

■ Research Area:

International relations, international political economy, regionalism and regional politics in the Asia-Pacific, great power politics in the Indo-Pacific

■ Research Methods:

Qualitative research method based on the case study approach

■ Seminar Topic and Keywords:

Basics on international relations and international political economy
Regional political economy in the Asia-Pacific/Indo-Pacific
Research methodology and research design

■ Seminar Teaching Method:

Discussions, guided independent research, progress report presentation

■ Possible Research Topics for Students:

Regionalism and regional integration in Southeast Asia/Asia-Pacific, geopolitics in the Indo-Pacific, China-Japan diplomatic relations, Japan's foreign and security policy

■ Comments:

The master course requires hard work compared with the undergraduate course. Please set up clear mid-term & final goals and continue your sincere efforts to achieve them.