Explanation of APU Faculty structure and positions

【The APU Tenure Track System】

The fixed-term faculty members (associate professor) hired under the tenure-track system are subject to an internal review of their performance in education, research, and university administration around the fourth year after their appointment. As a result of the review, if the faculty meets the criteria for review in accordance with the university regulations, the position will be changed to a tenure-track position and they will be rehired until retirement.

【Assistant Professors】

Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University offers the Assistant Professor position to individuals who have just obtained or about to obtain their Doctoral degree with the aim of nurturing new faculty. Following the term as assistant professor, an internal review will be conducted on the faculty's achievements in education and research. As a result of the review, if the faculty meets the criteria for review in accordance with the university regulations, they will be promoted to the position of fixed-term associate professor. The tenure-track system will be applied to these fixed-term associate professors, and they will be able to change their job title to tenure-track position in accordance with the above [The APU Tenure Track System].

【 Retirement 】

The retirement age for tenured faculty is 65 for professors and 60 for associate professors.

4. Employment Conditions:

Based on University regulations. Support for research is also available (individual research funds for materials and travel expenses).
