

January 21, 2022

To All Students

Hiroshi Yoneyama
Vice President
Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University

Classes moved online due to spread of novel coronavirus

The novel coronavirus is rapidly spreading throughout Japan, including Oita Prefecture, due to the omicron variant. In response to the current situation, all classes will be offered online (Zoom) from January 24 (Monday) until February 11 (Friday). Students can check Campus Terminal for further details and information.

Please continue to protect yourself and others from infection by taking preventive measures such as washing your hands, wearing a mask, and avoiding the Three C's (crowded places, close-contact settings, and confined spaces), and please refrain from eating and drinking with multiple people. The University released a message from Professor Tateyama, Dean of Student Affairs, about infection control measures on January 20, 2022. Please read this message carefully and make efforts to prevent infection.