

Asia Pacific Conference 2012

DATE: December 7-9, 2012

*December 7-8 for Graduate Student Workshops

*December 8-9 for Regular Paralell Sessions

Every year, the Ritsumeikan Center for Asia Pacific Studies (RCAPS) holds an international Asia Pacific Conference (AP Conference) aiming at becoming a Center of Excellence. This year's AP Conference will consist of two parts. One part will be a "Graduate Student Workshop." The other part will consist of regular panel sessions. The two parts will simultaneously take place on the APU Campus with overlapping schedules. We expect a high level of participation. For more details, please see the RCAPS HomePage.

[1] Workshop Sessions are designed for a limited number of graduate students who have prepared a manuscript for presentation and possible publication at an academic journal. The theme of this Workshop is "Disaster Management and Japan" RCAPS will cover a maximum of 60,000 JPY for actual travel expenses, and additionally a maximum of 10,000 JPY for actual accommodation fee per night (up to 2 nights) for the selected applicants. RCAPS will invite expert discussants to help refine the manuscript through the workshop.

[2] Regular Panel Sessions during the conference will accommodate papers from a wide range of fields including, but not limited to, Anthropology, Sociology, Cultural Studies, International Relations, Business and Economics, and other research areas with a relationship to the Asia Pacific region.
